LET'S HIT THE SLOPES! 6 EUROPE SKI HOLIDAYS YOU'RE BOUND TO LOVE

Between the feeling of zipping down snowkissed slopes, enjoying hot chocolate with a view of sprawling mountaintops and cosying up in front of a fireplace every night, Europe ski holidays really do have everything. We can't get enough of them... which is why it's great that there are so many to choose from across the continent!

WENGEN, SWITZERLAND

Hotel Falken and Grindelwald skiing

Just a short walk from the station and the main street of car-free Wengen, Hotel Falken is a Victorian-style stay furnished in traditional alpine style. Think wooden floors, chandeliers and centuries-old furniture which transport you back to 19th-century glory. Whether you crave steep peaks or gentle, wide runs, the local area has plenty of choice for skiers. There's pistes galore on the Grindelwald side, served by wonderfully speedy chairlifts.

ST. MORITZ, SWITZERLAND

Hotel Waldhaus Sils and Corvatsch/ Furtschellas

Skiing in Europe doesn't get any better than in Switzerland. High up on the best places to indulge in the winter sport is the formidable Corvatsch/Furtschellas ski area, which contains a multitude of winter sports areas covering a huge stretch of ground. Special touches include its magical 'snow nights', where you get to ski down the country's longest floodlit slope. The resort also boasts a single malt whisky distillery sitting 3,300 metres above sea level, making it the highest single malt whisky distillery in the world! Now that's what we call a special touch... and if special is what you're after, make Hotel Waldhaus Sils your hotel of choice, too. This legendary five-star forest lodge is nestled among some of Switzerland's finest rural scenery, and is an exemplar of hospitality as well: having won The Historic Hotels of Europe Customer Care Award in 2013. There's a lot to love...

www.hhe.travel/waldhaus-sils

Antiq Palace and Kranjska Gora

Out of more than 100 ski areas in Slovenia, the biggest and best is in Ljubljana. Kranjska Gora is where the world cup competitions are held, and with slopes for all levels of experience, it's unsurprising that it's one of the best places for tourists to go when skiing in Europe too. Less than a half-hour drive from the city centre is Krvavec ski resort, named the best winter sports region of Slovenia multiple times.

Make Antiq Palace your winter base to add the final flourish to your snowkissed stay. Based in the heart of the capital and brimming with majestic old-world charm, it's close to Ljubljana's most iconic landmarks and all the ski-based fun. www.hhe.travel/antiq-palace

MERIBEL, FRANCE

Hotel L'Helios & SPA and Les 3 Vallées

Don't want a long commute between your bedroom and your ski set? Hotel L'Helios and SPA bridges that gap wonderfully. The chalet is actually based on the Doron's slope overlooking Les 3 Vallées – the largest linked ski area in the world – so you can switch between skiing and relaxing with ultimate ease. Enjoy a traditional French snack at the hotel's creperie, “2 de Doron”, before jumping into one of the resort's 180 ski lifts and heading up to your favourite mountaintop. Or book a quick massage at the hotel's spa before stocking up on ski equipment at the handy onsite store. Europe ski holidays were never so convenient – or so exhilarating.. www.hhe.travel/helios

SOUTH TYROL, ITALY

Hotel Alte Goste and Kronplatz

A mountain mutiny, Kronplatz is an exception to the usual rough and rugged Dolomite terrain. It's like a smooth cone, a poster boy for the perfect slope – as if purposely sculpted for adrenaline-pumping skiing. Fast long pistes provide thrill-seekers with the ultimate descent, while beginners can cruise at their own pace on gentler slopes.

Then, after a day hurtling down the mighty mountain, linger in a herbal bath, warm up in the sauna or enjoy a recharging treatment at Hotel Alte Goste. Book in for the weekend and soak up the Dolomites from your very own bedroom in this charming hideaway, first mentioned in a document in 1142.
www.hhe.travel/alte-goste

KLOSTERS, SWITZERLAND

Hotel Chesa Grischuna and Davos Klosters skiing

Did you know that members of the British Royal Family reportedly visit Klosters each year? This stunning spot shares more than 250 kilometres of slopes (and endless thrills!) with Davos, and visitors can access the entire area using just one ski pass. From towering mountaintops zip down red, black or off-piste runs straight back down into the characterful village, where your hotel is waiting. Hotel Chesa Grischuna has been the favourite haunt of well-known names and historic figures since 1938. Nowadays, it offers heartwarming fare and comfortable rooms within a classic chalet-style setting. Holidays just don't get more charming than this.

www.hhe.travel/grischuna

THROUGH THE KEYHOLE: Discover who lived and stayed in Europe's most historic hotels

Despite the many unique features that set each of our historic hotels apart, many of them can say they've experienced the same thing at one point or another: celebrity guests! Plenty of the properties in our Collection have been around for centuries and, as such, have seen several famous folks and historic characters step through their doors. Here are just a few of them (and a bit about the properties that played host)...

MILAN, ITALY

Grand Hotel et de Milan

The Grand Hotel et de Milan is your portal right into the heart of Italian history and culture. Sleek, stylish and in the centre of thriving Milan, it's just a short walk away from the best places to eat, drink and shop as well as landmarks like the Duomo Cathedral: an unmissable sight and spiritual experience rolled into one. A variety of charming and decadent restaurants and bars on-site, as well as luxury five-star accommodation, make The Grand one of Italy's most exceptional historic hotels. You'll want to try it out for yourself presto. www.hhe.travel/grand-hotel-milan

Who stayed here?

This hotel has always been a favourite among the famous. Crafted by the architect Andrea Pizzala, who also created Milan's Galleria De Cristoforis, it's since been the haunt of diplomats, musicians and actors along with prestigious names including the Italian composer, Giuseppe Verdi, who put himself on the musical map by writing operas like Otello. The Polish painter Tamara de Lempicka and soprano Maria Meneghini Callas also stayed here among many, many others.

HAVERFORDWEST, WALES

Roch Castle

Roch Castle is defined by its drama (on the outside, at least!). High above the Pembrokeshire landscape, this hill-topped castle looks as though it was built for epic quests and adventures. Those who are lucky enough to book one of the six rooms here can look forward to personable five-star service, including breakfast made to order and a glorious Sun Room. With floor to ceiling glass walls and an alfresco viewing platform, you couldn't ask for a better seat in the house from which to admire the Welsh countryside.

www.hhe.travel/roch-castle

Who stayed here?

Roch Castle has over 800 years of history ingrained within its walls and has been home to Norman knights, lords, viscounts and other notable figures. One of these was Lucy Walter, who was the mistress of King Charles II and bore his child, the Duke of Monmouth. Another, and the first known inhabitant of the castle, was a Norman knight by the name of Adam de Rupe. As myth has it, Adam received a prophecy from an old woman saying that he would die from a snakebite within a year. Scared, he built Roch Castle on top of a rocky outcrop and hid at the top... but one day, his servant brought him a basket of logs in which a snake was hiding. It did indeed bite him and he died - or so the story goes!

CONNEMARA, IRELAND

Renvyle House Hotel

It's hard not to fall in love with Ireland's rugged and rural splendour, particularly when you're in one of our most striking historic hotels next to the Wild Atlantic Way. This is where Renvyle House Hotel has been for decades, delighting guests with its standout hospitality and location... often at once. The property's outdoor Canadian hot tub allows you to enjoy the area's birdsong as you recline and relax. Elsewhere, Renvyle's restaurant - headed up by the award-winning chef Tim O'Sullivan - serves up divine dishes with ingredients from the hotel's gardens and orchard. Perfection
www.hhe.travel/renvyle

Who stayed here?

You need only look at Renvyle House Hotel's extensive list of previous visitors to understand what a draw it's always had. Oliver St. John Gogarty, the inspiration for the character Buck Mulligan in James Joyce's Ulysses, once lived here. Since becoming a country house hotel in 1883, the property has also hosted the painter Augustus John, dramatist Lady Gregory, poet Yeats and politician Churchill under its roof. Quite the red carpet.

Hotel & Restaurant Schwarzer Bock

Who knew medieval vibes and modernity could go so well together? This is the balance that Hotel & Restaurant Schwarzer Bock has mastered thanks to the incredible efforts of its hoteliers, the Fuhrmann family. Behind its classically stylish facade and traditionally furnished areas are a range of rooms fitted with all the tech you'll need for a comfortable stay, including coffee machines and flat screen TVs. Don't be fooled, though. Despite its contemporary quirks, this hotel has actually been around for many hundreds of years... and beloved by tourists and locals alike, it's set to be around for many more to come.
www.hhe.travel/schwarzer-bock

Who stayed here?

Hotel & Restaurant Schwarzer Bock used to be the favourite tavern of Prince Luitpold - the Prince Regent of Bavaria! It's said that he came here to make merry with his officers over drinks before stumbling home to his castle (which, fortunately, was just next door). Legend has it he favoured the Ansbach Bratwurst and would frequently order it after a day of adventuring in the Bavarian countryside. Now that's what we call a story to tell.

CAPTIVATING CULTURE: 8 INCREDIBLE PLACES TO CELEBRATE WORLD HERITAGE DAY

Call us biased, but we'd say that there's lots to appreciate across the continent in particular! Make the most of World Heritage Day in Europe, this year and beyond, with our insights on the best activities, cities and hotels: from the most riveting UNESCO World Heritage sites to Europe's lesser-known hidey holes and renovated properties. Where will you end up..?

1 St Davids, Wales

Bursting at the seams with charm, Britain's smallest city is the ideal destination for those looking to celebrate World Heritage Day in Europe. Quaint, cobbled streets and enjoyable eateries are met with brilliant places to soak up Wales' heritage, including St Davids Cathedral and Oriel y Parc Gallery, which houses collections from the National Museum of Wales alongside diverse works by local artists.

Art lovers should take note of Blas Restaurant, too. Not only do the expert chefs here serve up delicious, local food, the restaurant itself showcases yet more art that captures the local landscape and culture: allowing you to consume a healthy dose of Welsh heritage with your meals.

WHERE TO STAY:

Twy r Felin has come a long way from its origins as a windmill in 1806. Now, it's Wales' first contemporary art hotel, though it hasn't given up its unique exterior. Choose from a range of exquisite bedrooms to slumber in, including a Windmill Tower Suite, which offers stunning panoramic views of the Welsh countryside.
www.hhe.travel/felin

2 Bruges, Belgium

The centre of Bruges is a historic settlement that has been masterfully preserved over the centuries. Modern builds are wedged in-between gorgeous Gothic constructs, now synonymous with the medieval metropolis that's a UNESCO World Heritage site. Keep your gaze high as you venture through its culture-rich streets, admiring its mix of architectural influences from the medieval to Neo-Gothic.

Make sure to visit the Belfry, too. Built in the 13th century, this iconic tower includes a treasury (which held the city's charters and more throughout the Middle Ages) and a music drum, used to play the tower's 47 carillon bells.

WHERE TO STAY:

Adhering to the architectural flavour of your trip, head to Flanders Hotel, which was designed by one of the foremost architects of the 19th century. Special features include an idyllic indoor pool and former Gothic room, dating back to the year 1304.

www.hhe.travel/flanders

3 Lisbon, Portugal

Gorgeous sunshine, friendly people, coastal views, and even a centuries-old candle shop. Lisbon really does have it all - and for those wishing to celebrate World Heritage Day in Europe, it should be high on your adventuring agenda.

Start with a visit to Jeronimos Monastery. This building is Lisbon's crowning glory of cultural activity. Historically, it was populated by monks of the Order of Saint Jerome, who were tasked with guiding sailors during the exciting Age of Discovery. Staggering sculptures and intricate cloisters reflect its maritime influences, portraying sea monsters, coral, rope and more. This famous sight also contains the tomb of Vasco de Gama: a famous Portuguese explorer, and the first European to reach India by sea.

WHERE TO STAY:

Solar Do Castelo is situated within a medieval castle village, built on the site of the former kitchens of the Royal Palace. This alone is a compelling reason to visit, but when you also factor in the property's gorgeous gardens and world-class hospitality, booking a room here is really a no-brainer.

www.hhe.travel/castelo

4 Milan, Italy

What better way to celebrate World Heritage Day in Europe than by seeing a real Leonardo da Vinci painting up close? The refectory of the Convent of Santa Maria delle Grazie contains da Vinci's "The Last Supper", painted between 1495 and 1497. It's widely-known as one of the world's finest artistic masterpieces, and is something you should definitely see on your trip to Milan.

The city itself is, too, something of a work of art. Springing up out of the lush, green Parco Sempione you'll find the astonishingly aesthetic Sforzesco Castle, while nineteenth-century arcades such as Galleria Vittorio Emanuele II boast ornate mosaics and vaulted glass ceilings. Who knew shopping could be so stunning?

WHERE TO STAY:

In the heart of the Italian history and culture you'll find The Grand Hotel et de Milan (more on page 16).

Close to Milan - as well as to two of Italy's most iconic lakes, Maggiore and Como - Locanda dei Mai Intees awaits. Its beauty is in its perfectly-restored details, from its 15th century frescoes to 16th century fireplace, perfect for snuggling down next to in the evenings.
www.hhe.travel/mai-intees

5 Limerick, Ireland

In 2014, Limerick became Ireland's first-ever City of Culture, and it more than earned the title. From the family-friendly King John's Castle to the Terra Nova Fairy Garden - which contains an ancient "fairy fort" - there's culture around every corner in the bright and lively Irish hotspot.

Perhaps most relevant to your World Heritage Day in Europe travels, though, is the Lough Gur Heritage Centre. Celebrating roughly 6,000 years of life, the lough now doubles up as an amazing nature spot and pseudo-outdoor museum. You'll see an ancient stone circle, ruins and more, as well as get to learn all about the many myths and legends surrounding this mysterious locale. It's a truly memorable day out.

WHERE TO STAY:

With so much to do in Limerick, you're bound to be out of doors and active for most of the day... so why not return to a spa? VOYA spa, located in the basement of No.1 Pery Square Hotel & Spa, offers a range of luxurious treatments to help you relax before enjoying the rest of what the boutique hotel has to offer, including an award-winning restaurant. Life doesn't get any better than this.

www.hhe.travel/one-pery-square

6 Rhodes, Greece

For equal doses of sunshine and heritage, look no further than Rhodes' medieval city. This ancient stronghold is home to an incredible amount of history, ruled by various leaders from different cultures across the centuries. Gaze at Gothic and Ottoman structures - like the city's ornate public baths - and learn all about its multi-layered past at the Archaeological Museum, built in the Hospital of the Knights over a period of over 500 years. The intricate and diverse artefacts it contains, such as vases and tomb groups, give a detailed glimpse at the many influences that inspired this medieval city, and made it the diverse and fascinating locale it is today.

WHERE TO STAY:

Allegory Boutique Hotel is impeccable from head to toe. Enchanting, rustic bedrooms contain everything you'll need for a comfortable stay, while customer-focused perks give it an even more charming edge, including access to a free journal: perfect for writing down the details of your travels for World Heritage Day in Europe
www.hhe.travel/allegory

7 Bodensee, Germany

Lake Constance - right on the border of Germany and Switzerland - is home to several amazing UNESCO World Heritage sites, making it the ideal place to spend World Heritage Day in Europe. If religious culture is your thing, step lightly to the monastic island of Reichenau, where you can explore various churches along with the traces of a Benedictine monastery, founded in 724. Alternatively, the prehistoric pile dwellings are sure to attract those interested in historic communities. These remains used to belong to homes that sat on raised stilts over the waters of Lake Constance, and while they've since been submerged, you can still learn plenty about them at the dedicated open air museum.

WHERE TO STAY:

Elsewhere close to the shores of Lake Constance is Schloss Wartegg: the perfect place to marry up days of culture with nights of perfect repose. This place was once so popular that Empress Zita - the wife of the last monarch of Austria-Hungary - used to roam the gardens here. Now, you can soar around them on a bike while admiring the many castle sheep - including newborn lambs - that are out during the spring season. It's pastoral perfection. www.hhe.travel/wartegg

8 Kotor, Montenegro

In between a sky-blue bay and dramatic mountains, the Montenegrin city of Kotor thrums with life. With cobbled streets stretching off into the cliffs and dramatic city walls casting a unique reflection against the mirror-like waters, this city feels perfectly at one with nature, while offering all the exciting benefits of an urban escape. Historians will particularly approve of the Cathedral of Saint Tryphon, built in 1116, while explorers taking a more languid approach to their World Heritage Day in Europe explorations will appreciate Kotor's mix of colourful cafe bars and immersive local markets.

WHERE TO STAY:

Hotel Cattaro has been voted a traveller favourite in three categories of Kayak's 2020 awards. Deservingly, too. This exceptional property is perfectly-situated to help you enjoy the best of what Kotor has to offer, and is built within the town walls itself.

Decorated to preserve the city's rich history, the hotel hosts luxurious events, has its own restaurant and is even home to a world-famous nightclub, Maximus. Check out this virtual tour before you book.

BEAUTIFUL PLACES TO BOND WITH YOUR OTHER HALF

You have a lot to choose from when it comes to the best holidays for couples in Europe. As a hotbed of captivating coasts, glorious cities and amazing countryside, the continent is the perfect place to go on any number of adventures for two. Keep reading to discover some of our top destinations with a romantic twist.

Santorini

A trip to Santorini has long-been considered one of the best holidays for couples in Europe... and for very good reason. The striking island is defined by its rugged cliffs and astonishing sunsets, which together create the perfect location for lovers. After spending your day on the waves and sampling Greek delicacies ('saganaki' is a favourite of ours), there's nothing quite like kicking back, holding hands, and watching the sun paint the sky in hues of apricot and cherry red... particularly from your very own terrace.

WHERE TO STAY:

Esperas Hotel: based high on the rugged cliffs of Oia and composed of several traditional island houses - carved directly into the rock - visitors can enjoy unrivalled views of the Aegean Sea while experiencing life in a traditional Greek home. Hotel highlights include a remarkable on-site swimming pool and panoramic terrace, where you can eat, relax and daydream each day away in total bliss.

www.hhe.travel/esperas

Aigialos Hotel, voted the 'Most Romantic Historic Hotel' in 2014, offers private terraces that look out across some of the island's best views... and its rooms are filled with character, too. Fully renovated in 2009 using local volcanic stone, each one has been designed with the island's seafaring history in mind.

www.hhe.travel/aigialos

FRANCE

Strasbourg

La Petite-France is the historic centre of Strasbourg and sits on the western side of the city's river, the Grande Île. You don't need a jam packed itinerary to make the most of this culture-crammed island: simply wandering the streets with a belly full of coffee and freshly-baked croissants will be sure to perfect your afternoon!

Admire the historic scenery and structures as you stroll by with your loved one, and take particular note of the Rue du Bain-aux-Plantes. Each half-timbered house on this street is painted white and sports various sizes and shapes, creating an aesthetic that leaves quite the impression.

WHERE TO STAY:

For staying over, book a room at Hotel Le Bouclier d'Or & Spa. Elegance, history and grandeur are the hallmarks of traditional romance, and this hotel more than delivers on all three: from its original features to top-tier spa. Enchantment awaits www.hhe.travel/bouclier-dor.

SLOVAKIA

Banská Štiavnica

This wouldn't be a list of the best holidays for couples in Europe without mentioning Banská Štiavnica. This charming Slovakian town is truly one of the continent's hidden gems, particularly noteworthy for its medieval buildings and 'love bank': a museum entirely dedicated to lovers, and created based on the world's longest love poem! Nominated for 'European Museum of the Year 2021', you can be confident you're in for an exceptional time when you book a visit here. Since 1993, the town and its surroundings are proclaimed by the UNESCO as a World Heritage Site.

WHERE TO STAY:

Just a short drive away is the idyllic Hotel Royal Palace: a luxury hotel fit for royalty. Everybody deserves a little star treatment from time to time, and this hotel offers just that. Unwind with your special someone in its spa, known for its healing waters, and while away some fascinating hours getting to know the history between the building's art deco architecture - the perfect backdrop for many a lovers' selfie. Be still, our beating hearts.

www.hhe.travel/royal-palace

AUSTRIA

Vienna

Romantic Vienna is the perfect base for any number of international date nights... and unique ones, at that! Forget dinner and a movie: Riding Dinner offers tourists an opportunity to eat Viennese delicacies from a horse-drawn carriage as it whisks you about the city, allowing you to soak up the sights while delighting your senses. Alternatively, Vienna's ball season is an amazing way to get to know the capital's musical culture while picking up some new dance moves. With plenty of unique activities for lovers on offer, Vienna can't help but provide one of the best holidays for couples in Europe.

WHERE TO STAY:

If that weren't enough, it's also home to one of the finest historic hotels in our Collection. Built in 1600 and serving tourists for centuries, Hotel Stefanie is the oldest hotel in the city and is (as you'd expect) an expert in hospitality. Between its exceptional staff and dreamy bedrooms, every day spent here feels like the first day of a honeymoon.

www.hhe.travel/stefanie

ITALY

Tuscany

If eating while admiring utopic scenery sounds like your idea of a romantic time, then Tuscany is likely calling you and your lover's names. Famous for its remarkable rural views and closeness to nature, this pocket of Italy is perfect for couples who like a taste of the outdoors. Tour vineyards, sample local cuisine, visit hot springs or take a trip to the fascinating streets of Florence for an invigorating and inspiring stay: you can even travel around by Vespa if you're feeling adventurous!

WHERE TO STAY:

Those more in the mood to relax and be pampered will find their needs met by Villa Le Barone: a four-star hotel in the heart of Chianti. This serene haven comes complete with an outdoor pool and restaurant dishing up the finest Tuscan cuisine. What's more, you can book your own cooking class as well where you'll receive a hands-on introduction whipping up divine Tuscan meals. A souvenir that'll last you and your partner a lifetime.

EQUESTRIAN TRAVEL DESTINATIONS TO TRY THIS SPRING

From the dramatic mountains of Italy to the sweeping plains of Ireland are some incredible equestrian travel destinations to choose from, fit for riders of every skill level and travel parties of every size. Coupled with our historic hotels across the continent, you have all the information you need to start planning an unforgettable, horse-centric holiday. Ready to ride into spring?

1 Merano, Italy

Even without the horse riding element, Merano is a beautiful part of the world to encounter. An Alpine town in Italy's South Tyrol region, it's crammed full of natural spas, staggering mountains and art nouveau buildings that both catch the eye and captivate the spirit.

Fortunately, there are plenty of brilliant riding activities to do as well, making it a great horse-focused holiday pick. Sample a slice of rustic life at the riding farm, Obermichelerhof, where you can trot by paddocks and meadows during your own private lesson or as part of a group. Further, more ambitious riders can opt for guided or day tours, where they can explore the stunning sights of Verano across a period of two to five hours.

For one of our more historic equestrian travel destinations, we'd recommend Reiterhof Sulfner. One of the original breeding establishments for the Haflinger horse, this institution has been around since 1874 - and its decades of experience shows. This expert facility offers a huge range of horse-related activities, such as carriage rides, riding lessons, long and short treks by horseback across the diverse countryside or guided laps around the facility. New and seasoned riders alike are sure to love it.

WHERE TO STAY

Combine your trip away with an Italian castle stay at Hotel Castel Rundegg. Surrounded by lush Mediterranean parkland and offering thirty, elegantly-furnished rooms and a spa, it's the epitome of decadence. On a more horse-y note - if you'd like to get out of the saddle and play spectator for a day - there's also a racecourse nearby which hosts events year-round..

Weeze, Germany

Düsseldorf and its surrounding areas are home to many of the continent's best equestrian travel destinations. Of special note is Bergerhof, located directly on the Rhine. A family business, this equestrian centre prides itself on its warm, friendly and efficient service. As with many of the other facilities we've mentioned, there are lots of activities to choose from here, as well: including arena riding, getting fast and furious on a galloping track and meandering around pastures. There's even a riding shop here if you want to buy a unique souvenir for a horse lover back home!

If you don't mind a bit of a drive, Equi-Art Reitkunst GmbH is also a great centre to take note of. With some flexible riding lessons to choose from - like group lessons with up to three riders or an hour-long session (which includes fifteen minutes of tailored feedback) - there are multiple ways to refine your skills in the saddle. In addition, lessons are offered in German, English and Portuguese, making them even more accessible for travellers around the globe..

WHERE TO STAY

As Germany's only inhabitable castle, you're guaranteed a unique night or two at Schloss Hertefeld. Their most special rooms include a historic Tower Suite and "Heaven's Room", which has two opulent bathtubs and a rooftop for stargazing. In driving distance from over a dozen horse riding centres in Düsseldorf, it's in a prime spot for equine and history lovers.

3 Dublin, Ireland

Sitting high in the Dublin Mountains is The Paddocks Riding Centre - an amazing riding facility with flexibility and fun at its heart. Whether you're travelling solo or planning an event (such as a family get-together), this centre can accommodate you. Ride across 3,000 acres (after a champagne reception, if you book as part of a group over ten), take part in guided lessons and experience a range of equine events throughout the year.

Irish National Stud and Gardens, based in Kildare, is also one to watch. Home to some of Ireland's most impressive horses, it's one of the country's prime equestrian travel destinations. Get to know world-class thoroughbreds and learn about some decorated stallions at this unmissable locale.

WHERE TO STAY

The words “luxury”, “cosy” and “historic” go hand-in-hand with Barberstown Castle. Relax next to crackling fires in traditional lounges, savour gourmet dining, taste fine wines and kick back in a bespoke bedroom at this 700 year-old property.

SLOVAKIA

Hotel Gino Park Palace: Orlove

Give your body (especially your stomach!) the royal treatment by booking a getaway at Hotel Gino Park Palace. This hotel prizes excellent hospitality above all, particularly when it comes to food. Combining traditional methods of preparation with seasonal ingredients, the on-site chef takes every consideration to ensure that all the meals served here feel “fresh”: both in the way they taste and in their composite originality. You’ll love the grounds here, too. Based in a historic park, Hotel Gino Park Palace is encircled by Slovakia’s finest feats of nature - creating a serene setting in which to access your most zen state of mind.

SLOVAKIA

Hotel Royal Palace: Turčianske Teplice

Not many spa hotels in Europe can boast their own source of mineral thermal healing water. Hotel Royal Palace can, though. It makes sense then, that you can unwind with old-world therapies – those touted by 13th-century kings – and bathe in the golden Royal Bath, a circular pool with thermal water directly rising from the depths of the earth. There are a ton of options to indulge in after bathing, too. Treat yourself to a royal massage, thermotherapy and more, as well as enjoy a range of services using 24 carat gold. www.hhe.travel/royal-palace

POLAND

Komierowo Palace: Komierowo

Just 11 kilometres from the largest biosphere reserve in Poland is Komierowo Palace: a wellness-focused idyll surrounded by centuries-old oak trees. This renovated palace checks every box when it comes to looking after your body. Along with specially-tailored yoga retreats, it's home to tennis courts and an outdoor gym. You can even go wild swimming, here, or spend chilled evenings kicking back next to a bonfire under a blanket of stars. Both relaxing and invigorating, this property has everything.

www.hhe.travel/komierowo

ESTONIA

Saka Manor: Saka

Perched on coastal cliffs and within a protected park is Saka Manor: a pearl of pure escapism on the edge of Estonia. Once again, a glorious spa is at the heart of this property, and various treatments - including aromatic massages, jacuzzi baths and salt chambers - are on offer to help guests unwind to their fullest degree. Its natural surroundings go a long way in enabling you to detach from the stresses of everyday life, too. After soothing your body at the hotel, stretch your legs by wandering the nearby beaches, parkland and hiking trails, spotting magnificent waterfalls on the way. It's a real treat of a retreat.

WALES

Penrhiw Priory: St Davids

Sometimes, a countryside escape that ticks all the boxes is exactly what's needed. Just think of it: breathing in the meadow-fresh air, savouring multi-award-winning dishes with ingredients sourced from the neighbours, and warming up your soul in one of the most calm-evoking European spas you could imagine. Penrhiw Priory is a 19th-century haven that can make blissful daydreams become heavenly realities. On the cusp of the dinky St Davids, you'll find plenty of memorable ways to fill your time at this ever-charming property.

www.hhe.travel/penrhiw

Rubezahl-Marienbad Castle Hotel

West-Bohemian romance comes in waves at Rubezahl-Marienbad: a forest hotel that takes the concept of 'luxury' to whole new heights. Live piano music plays in the property's ornate ballroom, while meals served on fine china appeal to all the senses. It's no exaggeration to say that this fairytale castle is the place to go for gastro-lovers, culture vultures and pleasure-seekers alike. Not only does it still retain the magical mountain spirit of the past, its modern spa and wellness centre, equipped with treatments such as a Himalayan salt sauna, wash away your tension and instill serenity.

www.hhe.travel/marienbad

Ice House Hotel: Mayo

IRELAND

Considered one of the finest spa hotels in Europe, Ice House is the kind of head-to-toe time-out we crave most days. Its award-winning Chill Spa is a temple of treatments and therapies, whether you're after a half-day of heaven, morning massage or weekend of winding down. For a spot of adventure in-between your all-important relaxation time, you'll love exploring the surrounding area, too. This 1800s property is based in Ireland's Wild Atlantic Way - one of the world's longest defined coastal routes. hhe.travel/ice-house

Hotel Villa Cipriani: Asolo

Villa Cipriani dates back to 1889, when English poet Robert Browning purchased it and permeated it with Florentine country vibes, of which he loved deeply. This character blends perfectly with the rolling hills of Asolo – the dream location for a spa retreat. Studded with five perfect stars, guests who venture to this fairytale property will experience the very best in hospitality and service, from the hotel's remarkable restaurant to its expansive spa. Expect a sauna, Turkish bath and mood showers, as well as a wide range of massages and treatments given by wellness experts.

SIERAKÓW - POLAND

Dwór Sieraków Restaurant

For three years, Dwór Sieraków Restaurant has been awarded by the Gault and Millau culinary guide: a well-earned achievement that accurately highlights its sophisticated menu. This restaurant specialises in traditional dishes with a modern twist, and uses only the freshest and most seasonal ingredients to craft them. To that end, they adapt their dishes four times a year, so dinners here are a constant surprise. Definitely worth multiple trips.

After pampering your palate enjoy a night of unparalleled bliss at Dwór Sieraków. Luxe rooms look out over four hectares of enchanting green grounds, beyond which Poland's best sights are only a short drive away. See the lively streets of Krakow, ski in Myślenice, go golfing and much more from this serene and well-situated property. www.hhe.travel/sierakow

CARLINGFORD - RELAND

Ghan House Restaurant

This 2AA Rosette Restaurant is a popular pick for all food lovers in this corner of Ireland, particularly those with a penchant for seafood. Their head chef, Stephanie le Sourne, has been running the kitchen for nearly ten years, and crafts delectable fish-focused recipes from the surrounding lough, including Ballagan lobster. If that weren't enough to tempt you, it's also nabbed several awards over the years, such as the Gourmet Getaway of the Year award at the the Irish Hotel Awards. Need we say more?

Ghan House also offers incredible accommodation. Benefit from one of its gorgeous suites, crammed with amenities, before exploring the many sights the area has to offer, such as the UNESCO burial sites of Newgrange and Knowth or ferry rides on Carlingford Lough www.hhe.travel/ghan-house

RETHYMNON OLD CITY - GREECE

Avli Restaurant

When seeking the finest gourmet restaurants in Europe, don't overlook Avli Restaurant. Combining Cretan and Greek culinary traditions, this gorgeous spot - encased by vibrant crawling flowers and quintessentially Mediterranean stone walls - is the perfect place to spend an evening or two dining in style. The 'Anthi' appetiser is a particular favourite of ours: a piquant dish consisting of zucchini flowers, soft goat's cheese and spearmint.

For your stay, enjoy eclecticism at its most extraordinary at Avli Lounge Apartments. This one-off hotel was once the home of a Venetian lord, as well as an olive press, soap factory and tannery. Parts of its multi-layered past have been preserved throughout, from its Venetian arches to antique furniture and unique works of art. You won't be bored for a second.
www.hhe.travel/avli-lounge

ISLAND OF BRAČ - CROATIA

Puteus Restaurant

Sequestered away on the idyllic island of Brač, Puteus Restaurant awaits, primed to please your palate with a range of local specialties. With perfectly prepared and plated meat, seafood and salad dishes, there's no better place to embark on a Croatian culinary adventure. You'll savour every bite..

For the night, say hello to five-star service at Puteus Palace! With only fifteen rooms and suites, the staff at this hotel are able to offer the finest level of service to each of its guests. Along with its restaurant, make sure you take advantage of the property's terrace and pool, and ask about its vibrant history. A renovated palace from 1467, it certainly has a lot of it. www.hhe.travel/puteus

MEET THE GUARDIANS KEEPING EUROPE'S HISTORIC HOTELS ALIVE

Behind every great historic hotel is a team of hardworking, enthusiastic and dedicated hoteliers that go above and beyond to look after the property in their care.

We caught up with the people spearheading two of the most beloved and distinguished properties in our Collection to find out what they've done - and what they're currently doing - to set their hotels apart from the competition.

HOTEL STEFANIE

AUSTRIA

Hotel Stefanie: Vienna

Conveniently situated in Vienna's first district is Hotel Stefanie: an exemplar of Austrian tradition and culture and one of our most esteemed historic hotels. We spoke to its owner, Dr. Schick, to find out what makes his hotel so special and some of the things he does to keep its historic spirit alive.

It was back in 1888 when my great-grandfather acquired the 'White Rose' hotel. He renamed it Hotel Stefanie in memory of the marriage between the Crown Prince, Rudolf, and Princess Stephanie of Belgium. The property has stayed in my family ever since. In fact, we're the fourth generation to have managed it.

It's an immense honour being at the helm of this historic hotel, and we do everything we can to preserve its roots while making it comfortable for the contemporary traveller. Over the past few years we've implemented an extensive renovation program combining the charm of days gone by with modern needs. That's our vision, in a nutshell: ensuring that our guests have the elegant four-star experience they desire alongside hundreds of years of tradition.

On that note, I've always been passionate about the history of this place. Along with the restoration work, we hired a historian to research Hotel Stefanie's storied past. One of their most exciting discoveries was several pieces of evidence that show that Hotel Stefanie really is the oldest hotel in Vienna. It's exciting to have the documentation to prove it.

You'll find personal anecdotes and touches everywhere in the property, too. I'm a big fan of collectibles so Hotel Stefanie is filled to the brim with them, especially in the hotel lounge: though you'll also find them in the restaurant, library, café bar and along the building's halls, where numerous antiques sit in display cabinets on the walls or in recesses.

History lovers will be amazed with what we have managed to gather. Among our finest treasures are some elaborately-designed clocks from the 17th and 18th centuries, as well as spectacular silverware from the 18th century. There's some stunning porcelain collections here as well, ranging from service sets to dishes and plates, including designs by Meissen and the much-coveted 'Imperial Manufactory' collection by Anton Kothgasser. Our crown jewel, though, is the original wash basin set of Princess Stephanie, complete with pitcher and washing pan. Having it is a great way to remind ourselves of our historic hotel's roots and namesake. For us, that's priceless.

IRELAND

Fernhill House Hotel: West Cork

Fernhill House is resplendent both inside and out. From its sprawling gardens to its pristine and vibrant rooms, guests have been falling in love with the property for years. We spoke to the proprietor, Michael O'Neill Jr., on the recent work he's done to the historic hotel and what he thinks makes it such a unique destination

Though I've been managing Fernhill House for over a decade, the property has actually been in my family for a lot longer: since 1946, when my great-grandparents bought it. Their investment became our family business, and we've been going strong for nearly a century.

I take my inheritance very seriously, and as a family operator, wear a great many hats! My day to day is extremely varied and can include everything from service to garden design and cheffing to finances. It's what makes my job so exciting, and what we hope translates into such a personable and memorable experience for our guests. We all pitch in, and put our heart into everything.

Recently, we've been focusing a lot on how to make our practices more sustainable without compromising the historic integrity of this astonishing building. One of the things we've done is plant over 3,000 trees - an achievement I'm particularly proud of. We've also rewilded areas of the land, which now display Ireland's gorgeous, natural biodiversity and environment while capturing a huge amount of carbon. Elsewhere, we have expanded our historic walled kitchen garden to grow more of our own produce and reduce food miles, and have also refurbished our bedrooms, practicing sustainable interior design by upcycling things like picture frames with the help of local producers. It's been a great exercise in preserving the past here, while at the same time reworking our practices to protect the planet.

Focusing so much on our exterior landscape, in particular, has also given us the opportunity to refresh what makes Fernhill House so special: our gardens. They're truly amazing, and we count ourselves lucky to have designs from the wonderful Mary Reynolds feature that echo the beauty of celtic Ireland. I'd also say that colourful stories are at the heart of this historic hotel. I love regaling guests with fun tales, particularly the one about the judge who changed the world with the help of a snail and another about a 'leprechaun haunting'! You'll never leave Fernhill House without an extraordinary story to tell.

Green Key

Eco-label in the hospitality industry

Green Key's International Director, Finn Bolding Thomsen, updates about the recent activities in the Green Key programme:

The Covid crisis hit the hospitality industry firmly. During this uncertain time, we have supported our Green Key awarded establishments by showing flexibility in the certification process and by running campaigns that were tailored to the needs during the pandemic. Although 2021 was a better year than 2020 for the hospitality industry, Covid-19 is still imposing restrictions on travel and meetings.

The pandemic has also opened our eyes to another and even more harmful crisis that we urgently need to tackle, namely the climate crisis. In Green Key, we have new criteria taking effect from 2022 with an increased focus on the measurement of the carbon emissions of an establishment, and the actions to actively reduce the carbon footprint. Our criteria also have an increased focus on our contribution to the protection of global biodiversity and the reduction of pollution. Our ambition is to support our participating establishments through training, webinars, and other supporting tools, and to use our large network to share best practices. We also want to increase awareness of the guests visiting Green Key certified accommodation through information and involvement during the visit as well as promotion of the sustainability efforts through social media, etc.

Green Key is additionally pleased to report on the programme's involvement in the COP26, in Glasgow, Scotland where the "Glasgow Declaration" was announced with the aim of having the hospitality industry committing to a carbon net-zero future by 2050, and Green Key is planning to join the Glasgow Declaration.

Green Key believes that partnerships are crucial in the efforts on tackling the climate crisis, and we are very happy to have Historic Hotels of Europe (HHE) as an important partner in this work. We are proud that several HHE hotels have already joined the programme, and more establishments are joining in the coming period.

Sustainable Voucher

The collaboration between the Historic Hotels of the Europe and the Global Forest Fund helps travellers reduce their environmental footprint and make their vacations more sustainable by purchasing Historic Hotels of Europe travel vouchers. When you purchase a Gift Experience Voucher through Historic Hotels of Europe, a portion of the proceeds are donated to the Global Forest Fund to support global environmental projects that plant trees, capture carbon, restore nature, protect biodiversity, build sustainable communities and educate the next generation of environmental leaders. The latest Global Forest Fund project launched in November 2020 will engage 1,500 students in Kenya, who will plant 10,000 trees over three years while also learning about Green Enterprise and sustainable livelihoods.

In addition to the automatic donation from the purchase of any Historic Hotels of Europe Gift Experience Voucher, you can choose to contribute an additional sum starting from 5€ to directly support the Global Forest Fund.
